

Case Study The Stotzfus Farm

This farmer wanted to take some timber from his mountain side without destroying the aesthetics of his farm. Timber was harvested to leave enough crown cover to look good from a distance even though we harvested a lot of timber. The tract had been high-graded years ago. I marked the stand for regeneration and Timber Stand Improvement with a herbicide treatment to prevent ferns from taking over the understory.

